Two Women/ do zan

Hailed as the most unsparing feminist film to emerge from Iran since the Islamic Revolution, this outstanding film by director Tahmineh Milani won the award for best screenplay at Iran's Fajr Film Festival in 2000.

Two Women is the story of an evolving friendship between two promising architecture students through the first turbulent years in post-revolutionary Iran.

Directed by Tahmineh Milani, and starring Niki Karimi, Marila Zare'i, and Mohammed Reza Forutan (1999, in Persian with English subtitles).
